Themes: A theme is a universal message about human nature that the author teaches you through the story. Write down any themes that you see after finishing each novel. There can be more than one possible answer for this! An example of what a theme might look like is "The goodness of an individual cannot be judged by social opinion alone."

Personal Responses: You will also want to record your impressions of different events in the book, which will help you participate in class discussions. Summarize the event, list the chapter in which it happened, then write your thoughts about what occurred. Aim for 5-7 responses per book.
